

What I like	To make it perfect
Thought provoking ideas Lots of references	Have more cohesion between different ideas Key ideas summed up in conclusion People in a circle if there's a discussion
	More interactive demonstration of examples/models
Lots of information and tools	More practically driven (some less theory)
Skilled speaker	For every book you mention, tell a story about how the book was useful in your work! Otherwise it's a shallow reading list...
It all fits together with other sessions Easy to start reading about the subject	Wrong time (too late, too tired)
Very good discussion afterwards	Too much theory
The discussion after the theory Some new insights	More structure in the presentation
Good talker Lots of new ideas Good slideshow Great discussion afterwards	Less theory
Very complete Idea of Meaning maker Right amount of info Very clear through red line
Good overview of the topic Great reference to the bibliography Well presented	Present less material and focus on a few topics
The resources where more info can be found	Less slides (too much for a short time) More concrete stories where this helped out
Lots of information and sources	Don't use the text book
More scientific and psychological way to scrum It gave me ideas to bring to my team	More structured information. For example, all the books at the end

The overview of the tools	More interaction, more concrete examples from experience
Knowledgeable, well-prepared Balance theory/Q&A	Use correct link for core: http://www.mccarthyshow.com Correct info: core commitments & core protocols are part of core
Very good speaker Wide area of topics Interactive Loads of info	More time for the session Maybe more intimate
Inspiring, I was looking for starting points to start to improve my coaching skills You gave me all I need (for now 😊)
Clarity and quality of contents, form and presentation	Know it by heart
Great inspiring session with lots of ideas	Maybe add some project (customer) experience
Good examples, nice discussion
Gives me ideas to start working on It kept me focused, on the end of the day!	Give more structure to the discussion in the end: some statements or questions
Very good	Nothing
Great talk, really. Especially the interaction with the listeners, showing of the models
Everything
Nice in theory but real life is something else It's a wonderful fairy tale unless you have a good group of people
